SEMINAR 1: Alan Curtis, Water Law

Alan Curtis is a partner at White & Jankowski LLP in Denver, Colorado. Alan represents municipal, agricultural, industrial, commercial and private water right holders. Alan has extensive experience in complex water rights litigation, having negotiated settlements for clients in over a hundred cases before the Colorado Water Courts. Where settlement is not possible, he has substantial experience as lead trial counsel. Alan has also prosecuted numerous water right appeals through Colorado District Court and the Colorado Supreme Court.

In addition, Alan represents clients in water right proceedings before: (1) the Colorado Ground Water Commission; (2) the Colorado and Utah State Engineers; (3) the Colorado and Utah Legislatures; (4) the Environmental Protection Agency; (5) the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment; and (6) other state and federal agencies.

Alan has litigated cases involving impacts of oil and gas production and hydraulic fracturing on water quantity and quality. He has also lectured and authored articles on various issues regarding Colorado water rights, water right transactions and water issues related to oil and gas production.

SEMINAR 2: Christine Stickley, Wyoming Law

Christine Stickley's practice focuses on civil defense for individuals and businesses. Her practice includes civil rights, contract, business, health care fraud, employment, copyright and trademark law, and compliance with complex state and federal regulations. Ms. Stickley litigates on behalf of her clients in state and federal courts and before administrative agencies.

Prior to joining Hall & Evans, LLC, Ms. Stickley was a Partner at Stickley & Wicke, LLP. Before her career in private practice, she was the Medicaid Fraud Control Unit Director for the State of Wyoming, handling civil and criminal health care fraud cases as well as Qui Tam actions. She also served as a Senior Assistant Attorney General for the State of Wyoming Attorney General's Office, defending state employees and agencies in civil cases including civil rights, police misconduct, wrongful death, and employment issues. She regularly advised government personnel on employment, contracts, policies, procedures, promulgating rules, civil rights, administrative actions, and drafting of legislation.

Ms. Stickley is admitted to practice in the States of Wyoming and Colorado, the U.S. District Court in Wyoming and Colorado, the U.S. Court of Appeals in the Ninth and Tenth Circuits, and the U.S. Supreme Court.
